SERMON IN SIGN LANGUAGE PREACHED TO DEAF MUTES

Unique Service Conducted by Evangelist, While Congregation Listened With Its Eyes - Fingers Often Raced Like Voice.

A regular church service, lasting an hour and a half, with prayer, sermon and benediction, and yet with no sound uttered during that whole period, is well calculated to arouse wonder. Yet that is exactly what took place in one of the rooms of the First Baptist Church last night, when Evangelist J. W. Michaels, of the Baptist Mission Board, preached to the deaf mutes of the city. It was by far the most remarkable sermon preached last night in Richmond.

The preacher took his text from Acts xxiv. 25: "Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season I will call for thee." The subject of his sermon was "Procrastination." The service begain with a reading from the Scriptures in the sign language, and was followed by a lengthy prayer in the same medium. To the individual accustomed to the spoken word the sermon was unusual in the extreme. It lasted a full hour, during which line is work.

him. There has been no word from Beattle or his lawyers since his arrest, more than two weeks ago. The silence from his cell has been both dignified and eloquent. Mr Smith has said nothing while the Commonwealth's case was being rounded off in print. But the picture of Beattle—so unlike that boyish face seen hundreds of times in hundreds of newspapers heretofore—was accepted as the best word in his favor yet—if a picture may be called a word.

It is ridiculous, of course, to assume that a little thing like a photograph would upset a chain of circumstantial evidence well nigh complete, and no such inference is to be drawn from what is printed here. But the fact remains that Richmond people felt yesterday as if some terrible blunder had been made—somehow, somewhere.

One of the reports from Boston show that Richmond had four writers who finished well up in the money.
Nearly every citizen has an idea that he can write a book, but few can get
by. It requires a certain amount of genius to get away with the goods, sometimes called honors.
When the August Bookman tabulated the returns the very pleasant information was conveyed that of the six best sellers all over the country in July, Richmond was there with four out of the six. It has never happened before in one month and it isn't likely to happen again.
In the Bookman's poll, "The Long Roll," by Mary Johnston, was at the head of the column, way up and above
"The Prodigal Judge," which finished second. Miss Johnston scored 311

Gault," by Kate Langley Bosher, which will solve the head of the column, way up and above with the pen, but what is written will never come out between cloth bindings. In the old lottery days, if a man on Church Hill happened to hit this, practically all the tickets for the next drawing were sold in Fulton.
But Fulton never scored. Still, we

COMING AGAIN ATE WHITE MICE

at City Auditorium in January.

Many old Wednesday Club favorites have been booked by the Radeliffe Lyceum Bureau for the City Auditorium next season. Madame Jeanne Jomelli, the famous Dutch soprano, who is sang "Dixie" two years ago in such a glorious way that the festival audits mice stood on its feet and cheered, is coming back in January. After getting a touch of Southern color by her song here, Madame Jomelli went to Atlanta, where she was properly introduced to the mint julep, and what she said by way of praise was printed all over the country. To sing "Dixie" and then rave over the julep, just as her auditence had raved over her song, made her solld in the South.

The Frank Croxton Quartet, from the Old Brick Church, New York, will bring other Wednesday Club singers to Richmond in October. The quartet is composed of Agnes Kimball, soprano; Nevada Van Der Veer, contralto: Reed Miller, tenor, and Frank Croxton, bass. Clara Blakesiee is the plantst.

The United States Marine Band, with Lieutenant W. H. Santelmann as conductor, will open the Auditorium season on September 25. Another big feature in the list is the Kelsey-Cunfingham, baritone. The Commonwealth Male Quartet is also booked.
